

Biography of Sana Edoja:

Born in the south of France, the eldest of a family of five children, my origins are French and Moroccan. From the age of thirteen, my favourite hobby was writing French poems and songs.

I initially pursued a degree in business administration, but a few years later developed a strong desire to sing. Unfortunately, circumstances didn't allow me to pursue this promising career.

In 1995, I came to the United Kingdom to improve my English. Struggling to make a living while in the UK, my life turned around when I believed and was baptized into Christ Jesus, confessing Him as my Lord and Saviour. I saw the power of God at work in my life.

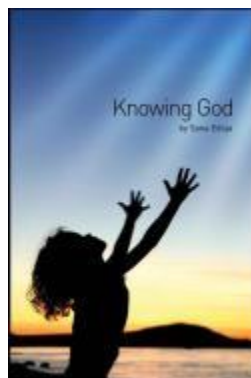

It was this experience that motivated me to write my first book "Knowing God", which I believe will help those who are seeking God to get a better understanding of the riches of the Kingdom of God.

"Knowing God" can be very challenging in the world we are living in today, especially with the circumstances of life shown to us by the media.

I have written this book with the clear intention and determination to help those who are looking for the truth to have a better understanding of God as the Bible intends.

There is nothing more beautiful and exciting than having a wonderful relationship with our loving God. His powerful Word promises us that if we seek Him, we will find Him.

“You will seek Me and find Me; when you seek Me with all your heart” (Jeremiah 29:13).

My personal experience with God motivated me to share with you what God has revealed to me about His character.

I will also share with you how you can develop a personal relationship with a wonderful Saviour; how your needs can be met and how you can live in righteousness through the power of the Word of God in a practical and conventional way.

I pray that this book will be a source of encouragement and enlightenment to those who are seeking God and want to know Him in a much deeper way.

May God bless you all forever and ever.

‘Knowing God’ is a collection of articles, forming an introductory style bible study guide. The Author’s aim is to help others understand that “There is nothing more beautiful and exciting than having a wonderful relationship with a loving God.” And in order to bring this point across, Sana Edoja has chosen topics that are likely to affect individuals who haven’t yet come into a relationship with Christ.

The book is broken down into different headings, based on the title of the articles. The reader can therefore, choose topics of interest and be able to have easy access to bible references dealing with that particular aspect of their life. Sana also urges readers to heed Paul’s advice according to Acts 17:11 as they study this book, “Now the Bereans were of more noble character than the Thessalonians, for they received the message with great eagerness and examined the Scriptures everyday to see if what Paul said was true.”

I believe the message that the author would most like to drive home is found in article 17, and in its title: “We have authority and victory over the enemy through Christ”. In this article, Sana reminds us to focus on Christ. Using the scene of Matthew 4:6, she reminds her readers that the devil also knows scriptures and that “there is no greater lie, than one that’s mixed with truth.” For this reason she urges readers to Focus on God, for “when we know the word of God like Jesus did (2000 years ago) and confess the scriptures throughout our life, using them to combat the lies of Satan,...” We will win the battle.

The author shares her experience in little bite sizes particularly in article 33 “God has given us free will” and others such as “Overcoming Temptation” and “Sexual Immorality” relating the practical side of what takes place when one does not focus on Christ. Having found Christ we are now responsible so article 40 is fitting towards the end of the book as she asks the question: “Are you fit to be God’s disciple?” Sana once enjoyed “clubbing on weekends”. Having found Christ, she lost interest both in that hobby as well as in the music. “I found that clubbing and worldly music were doorways for sin...” listing a few of these sins as “lust, violence, drugs, sex and alcohol” and points out that “they don’t satisfy the craving needs of our souls for love.” And so it is important to not conform to the ways of this world as article 41 highlights.

My recommendations, in order to get the best out of this book, would be to treat it as a reference guide rather than a book you sit down and read from cover to cover. It would be a great gift for a new-born believer, to help towards spiritual growth.

Police work and experience has brought heiress and non-Masonic author Eliza Earsman into close contact with most of those named in Days of Elijah (Revised): A True Story. See e.g. the bombing of Pan-Am 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, in December 1988.

Eliza as a result has become an unintended agent provocateur re: the British Mountbatten-Windsor royal family, their Scottish Ritual Freemasons inner circles and their atrocities.

Eliza is a member of several international literary communities. Her travels span such countries as the United States of America, Canada, Israel, Spain, Jordan, Portugal, Holland, Central and Eastern Europe, France, Australia, Scotland, Ireland, Malaysia and Korea. Although Eliza's autobiographical works do not always follow conventional means, her brutally honest depictions have done much to raise international awareness about Freemasonry. Her high-profile published works include

- Days of Elijah (Revised): A True Story
- A Collection of Verse.

POWERFUL, DISTURBING, AUTHENTICATED NON-FICTION!

Despite failed attempts to silence this author, details emerge of the spiritual contentions and intentions of Britain's Mountbatten-Windsor Royal family, their inner circles, and other horrifying realities behind the Scottish Ritual Freemasons.

Their World War III agenda is exposed. This evidence will move, shock, and sadden readers as a story of loss, faith, love, action, and grief unfolds.

But...remnants of joy and laughter engage readers as the details encompass the author's Scottish lowland birth, background, childhood, adulthood, and calling at the age of forty. Sensible and multicultural readers will benefit from insightful access to understanding the historical content and context.

Based on integrity, goodwill, and an already high worldwide profile, Days of Elijah (Revised): A True Story provides an opportunity to step into the life of one courageous outspoken woman! A must-read!

Grace wants to take this opportunity to tell you all about her first book in The Asquinn Family Saga. The James Bay Frontier is set in the more laid back era of 1945-1968. It's Mamcu's (Grandma's) story and tells how she, with four children, left all that was familiar in her home in Wales and followed Tadcu(Grandpa) to Canada, and eventually ending up in the James Bay Frontier. The town they settled in is the scenic little hamlet of Forest Lake, (fictitious name)where the family settles and Tadcu's preaches and prepares a people for God.

The story transcends ages and genres. There is a question page at the back so that readers can study the book with their book club group. Sunday Schools, Youth camps, and Church camps can use the book as well as Christian schools, and anyone that works with adolescence. If you are in the position do do so, please have the adolescence (or any age) in your charge read this book.

When an archaeologist uncovers an earthshaking discovery in the mountains of Zimbabwe, plenty of theories are unearthed to describe his find.

Canadian archaeologist Mark Graham digs up the remains of a pterodactyl, found carefully buried next to a set of gigantic human bones. What could his finding mean? Was there a race of giant humans who existed near the time of the dinosaurs? Or is the find a carefully planned hoax?

Lorilyn Roberts' first book, The Donkey and the King, is a beautifully illustrated children's book published by Virtualbookworm.com.

The Donkey and the King is a story of love with Christian symbolism and allegory. A donkey named Baruch longs for an easier life beyond the stable. He dreams of a life with no heavy burdens and no one to tell him what to do.

After leaving the safety of the stable, the donkey becomes lost in the wilderness, but the King sends him a friend. With his new friend, a sheep, the donkey sets out on a journey that you won't forget.

Each page is beautifully illustrated with the word "good" hidden in the artwork. Children will learn that everything works together for good to those who love the King. The Donkey and the King will warm your heart and fill you with God's unconditional love.

At 26, Stacy Padula of Pembroke, Massachusetts, looks back on her teen years as a lesson for others. She is writing her Montgomery Lake Highbooks in the hope they can help kids deal with the stresses and peer pressure of high school. "I also wanted to encourage kids to steer a straight path, pursue God, and not fall for the false promises of the world."

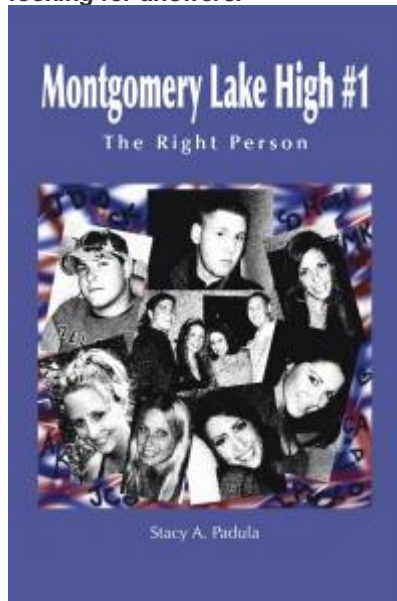

Montgomery Lake High #1: The Right Person By Stacy A. Padula

The high school years can be some of the most emotionally grueling years of one's life. Teens daily enter into the war between being true to themselves and fitting in with their peers.

One such troubled teen is Chris Dunkin, who's been a substance abuser since age 12. Now 15, he's drinking alcohol more often, and using heavy drugs to keep himself high. His grades, family relations, and dream of becoming a pro football player are slipping through his fingers. Starved for strength and willpower, Chris knows he is in over his head. One evening, a ray of hope shines into his dark world in an unexpected form – a beautiful girl name Courtney Angeletti. Fed with the food of encouragement, Chris sets out on a quest to find the true meaning of freedom.

This story of teenage acceptance and the battle over moral convictions will hit home with many teens looking for answers.

Faith and Temperaments. (pdf, adapted and expanded from Ray W. Lincoln's next book, THE REAL YOU — Your Blueprint to Excellence)

Faith (beliefs) are the motivators of our lives. Here is the only insight (of which we are aware) into how each of the temperaments handle and benefit from faith or belief. It's a fantastic, practical understanding of why and how each of us either succeeds or fails. When you have taken the Temperament Key (available FREE on our website and included in I'M A KEEPER), this will show you the way to success — whatever success means to you. Failure is too often spelled "I did not understand who I was." Most people fail because they don't know themselves. Struggling? Wanting the best? You simply can't do without this.

Ray W. Lincoln, bestselling author of I'M A KEEPER, international speaker and coach specializing in the study of human nature and temperament, shows you how to maximize your faith through an understanding of how you are made "on the inside."

This will put you on the road to understanding and exercising your faith (beliefs) to achieve the reality of that faith exercised. It will show you the direction your life is intended to go.
